POST is in need of EVOC training vehicles. Specifically we are looking for Crown Victoria's and/or Chargers. Vehicles should be in fair shape with no major mechanical issues. If any agency has any leads on patrol vehicles now, or in the near future please contact Adam Houle at (775) 687-3314, or email at ahoule@post.state.nv.us. Any help is greatly appreciated.

Management Program

POST is in the process of up-dating all of its programs. The current Management program is undergoing an update. Anyone that has started taking the modules are encouraged to complete the program during the 2018 calendar year. We will be changing the Independent modules and books so that information in the books can be better used in the classroom setting.

JULY 2018

Peace Officer Physical Readiness

When you exercise regularly there are many more benefits other than just weight loss or staying in shape. Fitness helps improve all aspects of your life, including work productivity. Fitness affects your health, your ability to stay alert on duty, your production and can even make you more eligible for promotion. By not exercising regularly, you could be putting your health, your job and your partners at risk.

Optimum Physical Health

Being in your best Physical Health will improve your overall physical abilities. Not only can fitness reduce body weight and risk of certain medical conditions, but also can improve cardiovascular health, which endows more stamina for any physical demands both on and off duty.

Improves Mental Health

Regular exercise can help curb feelings of anxiety and depression. When you work out your brain releases serotonin which improves the state of mind, making the stressors of duty and life easier to handle. Stress dealt with constructively, can lead to improved relationships with co-workers and family members and allow for a more secure future in a taxing profession.

Illness Prevention

Fitness through power walking, running, weight lifting, swimming and martial arts can help reduce your risk of developing certain types of illness and disease. This means fewer sick days, improved immunity, reduced risks of developing type 2 diabetes, obesity, hypertension and heart disease – all which can interfere with work productivity and quality of life.

Mandatory In-Service Law Enforcement Fitness

In-Service Training of police officers has always been encouraged to enable an officer to perform more efficiently and safely. Some in-service training is mandatory by various federal or state statutes, codes or rules. Based on the limitless positive effects of fitness on officers many agencies have either offered or mandated on duty exercise. These agencies have seen fewer on duty injuries, sick days and higher production from their officers
